DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's election without traverse of Fig. 2 species with readable claims 1-8 and 11-17 in Paper No. 7 is acknowledged. However, upon careful review of the elected claims it is determined that claims 8, 11 and 17 do not read on the elected Fig. 2 species. Accordingly, elected claims 1-7 and 12-16 are currently under consideration and non-elected claims 8-11 and 17-19 have been withdrawn from further consideration.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-7 and 12-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1-7 and 12-16 are vague and indefinite for the following reasons:

The recited "a conveying and centering unit of a screen-printing device" in claim 1 is not understood as to what structure is required. As is well known in the printing art that screen-printing devices come in many different forms. The print screen could be flat, curved, or cylindrical and mounted on various forms of support frames. What structure is required of the recited "a screen-printing device"? What is a conveying and centering unit of a screen-printing device? Is it for conveying and centering a print screen or a substrate being printed by the print screen? What is the structural requirement of such a conveying and centering unit? The recitation of "an upper unit of the screen-printing device" in claim 2 is equally confusing. Since none of the recited screen-printing device, the conveying and centering unit and the upper unit had been structurally defined, it is unclear what structural arrangement is required and how they function. Accordingly, the scope of claims 1-7 and 12-16 can not be ascertained and no search of prior art can be carried out by the examiner at this time.

Applicants are advised to carefully review the claims and make all changes necessary so as to present these claims in accordance with the requirement under 35 USC 112, 2nd paragraph in their response to this Office action.
